to probabiliE COAST SURVEY.

crolessor Agassiz has at last d finitely declined to accept the flattering honor of the superintendency of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and In his letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, points out to the Secretary that there nre two gentlemen now in service who are specially fitted by their scientificand mathematical attainments to be valuable in the Administration of the

The selection of the learned profes sor who has inherited so much of the talent of his great father, was one that was an honor to the President and Soc refary Manning, Professor Agassiz modestly disclaims being a specialist in mathematics, or a physicist, and explains that his health requires an anmual winter trip toward the tropic He has mapped out for himself a lifework which will cominue the search nlmost originated by his illustrious father, and in the professional love for science that permeates all scientists. prefers to pursue his labor of love rather than accept an office of honor and preferment when that office removes him to a newer field.

THE CRETE still thinks that the wisest of all selections for such a place is Professor Simon Newcomb, to whom Professor Agassiz refers in his declination. The other gentleman now in the service to whom Professor Agasalz al-Indes is Professor Coffin of this city, but he is now on the retired list of the navy for age, and Is thus unsuitable Professor Newcomb is the younges man in the navy who has attained such eminence; and while the world knows of his scientific eminence, his executive ability has been proven by his administration of the Nautical Almanae office.

CONGRESS AND THE TREASURY. The new form of debt statement gives the tariff reformers a cold chill, and operates disastrously upon their in the Treasury as the result of protective duties. It is calculated to have a similar dampening effect upon Senator Blaine's educational scheme, and upon other expensive projects. If it can be made to appear that there only a trifle in the Treasury to spend, Congress may not feel under such a high moral obligation to spend it.

It is to be hoped, however, that the next Congress will exhibit that somewhat rare quality of our latter-day statesmanship—a practical knowledge his physical energies to a remarkable of all the great measures that are pressed upon its consideration, and a business-like discernment of their relation to the interests of the country.

There has always been too much crude and ill-considered legislation. The history of the tariff furnishes notable illustrations of the passage of measures, with the details of which a large majority of members are wholly unfamiliar and which results show to be imperfect, unsatisfactory and in many cases mischievous. Congressmen the sight of a big appropriation is a ruling incentive; the process by which it is reached an altogether secondary matter. It is well, perhaps, that the tendency of things is to a more economical basis and more honest ways of dealing, Whether there is an excessive surplus in the Treasury or no surplus at all is not of itself an argument for or against when it comes to legislation that is really meritorious and urgent. Whatever Senators and Representatives can show to be needful for the public welfare, whether it be a revision of the tariff in the direction of greater freedom in trade, or the expenditure of money for the education of the illiterate in the South, or the improvement of water-ways, or the promotion of commerce between the States, or the deepening of harbors and building of canals, the people will not be unwilling to foot the bills. They simply demand that not a dollar be voted away, creased or curtailed, without the same conscientious and intelligent consideration that would be individually bestowed upon the undertakings and affairs of private life. May the country not hope that such a wise and states manlike policy will prevail at the Capitol next winter.

EATIN AND GREEK.

Canon Farrar made an address at Johns Hopkins' University in Baltimore last evening, in the course of which he spoke of the study of Latin and Greek. He believes in the teaching of the classics in conjunction with the more practical branches of cluention, but not in the old machine methods of teaching them, nor in teaching them to the exclusion of other

Mr. Farrar said that years ago he began a crusade against Greek and Latin as then taught, and now finds that the movement gained such headway that he has to make a saving pleafor those studies, the growing disposition being to abandon them altogether. He believes in a judicious amount of the dead languages, and is opposed to their exclusion from the college curri-

It will be a long time before they are dropped. Of course in these practical Greek and Latin and hold that the time | I did not catch your remark, because I was so entranced with the charming yows - [Life.

Such, however, is far from being the case. Those two languages will be exensively taught as long as there ar people to learn. No man is thoroughly quipped, from an educational point of view, who has not some knowledge of the classics. Even a slight knowledge of them is a great benefit, and aids the massessor of it most materially livex ending his education and genera tnowledge of literature and perfecting ils modes of thought and expression

THE Excitant are constantly making connumication by mail and telegrap! cheaper to the public. The govern ment runs the telegraph system of the ountry, and its charges have been a moderate that that means of cores spandence has been employed by the English people generally more exten sively than by the prople of any other nation, and now another refraction by been made in telegraph rates. For sixpence a telegram containing twelve words can be sent to any part of the United Kingdom. This rate went int effect yesterday, and there was a great rush at all the telegraph officer The operation of the telegraph by the Government has many advocate in this country, and bills looking to that end have been repeatedly intraduced in Congress. A great deal car be said in favor of Government own ership of the relegraph wires, but i will be a long time before such a thing is accomplished in this country. The conditions of the two countries as a cost of construction and operation ar ssentially different.

Ex Governor Moses of South Caro ina, whose variegated career of petty ewindling and frequent Imprisonment during the past few years, has allenated him from the sympathies of his old friends, and characterized him as an apparently hopeless wreck, is about to take an extended leave of the public. having been sentenced to three years in the State's prison by Judge Abbrich. of the Superior Criminal Court of Bos on for his latest exploit. The court could not see what good. It would do to send him to a reformatory institution, What effect long residence and hard labor in the penitentiary may have upon his morals remains to be seen,

MR. EDWARDS PTERREPOST has writ en a letter to Congressman Warner, in which he says that if the latter will in sert in his bill a provision to make hi proposed silver certificates a legal tender, he will have accomplished all that is necessary. Otherwise the debtor will be helpless in a time of gold stringeney, because debts cannot be paid in mere "commodities." Without a le gal tender value, silver is no more money than wheat, corn or tobacco It needs the force of law to make it equivalent to gold in the circulation o

In his summing up yesterday before surrogate Rollins of New York on behalf of Miss Hoyt, in the Hoyt will contest, General Butler emphasized his argument every now and then by interjecting the word "Sheel," thus indicating his approval of the new version, The General's mind appears to 1 dwelling upon his latter end of late.

MR. GEORGE BANCROFT, the vene able historian, will commemorate hi eighty-fifth birthday to morrow. II has passed the allotted age of man by fifteen years, yet retains his mental faculties in all their robust strength and degree. May his honorable and wellspent life be long preserved.

REFERRING to General Grant at the nemorial meeting last night. General Logan said that "his heart was as pure as the dew-drop which hung upon the lips of the velvet rose." There's a metaphor that's worthy of a poet People who imagine that Logan is a slouch among the flowers of rhetoric misjudge the man.

A Miss Black of New York claims that she owns the whole of the Nine teenth Ward of that city. She is probably not a Mugwump, because she does not claim the whole city.

Miss NEVADA having been married, we may now hope that the cable will cease giving us descriptions of her lingeric and two-hundred and fifty-dollar wedding cake.

The following rule for cooking a beef teak was adopted by the celebrated Beefsteak Club of London in 1734 and has never been improved upon: been improved upon:

Pound well your meat until the fibrer break;
lie sure that next you have to broil the steak
Good could plantly; nor a moment leave.
But turn it over this way and then that.
The lean should be quite rare—not so the fat;
The platter now and then the judes resedue,
Pat on your butter—place it on your meat—
Suit, pepper, turn it over, serve and out.
